

Main Sponsor

SDF Conference - Super-Vision and Sea Change 29th - 30th November 2018

When was the last time that you had the time and space to stand back and take a good look at your purpose, department, or the way in which you perform your role? It was very likely some time ago that you gave yourself this luxury. We invite you join us on the south coast to take a breath of fresh air and to stand back and develop some super-vision on your own practice. Come and join us to explore how we can create a 'sea change' in our own practice so that we can support others to effect change in theirs.

The conference will touch on five key themes:

- A provocative look at our purpose, our role and our practice.
- Tools, techniques and approaches that have been proven to effect change
- Coaching, including: coaching supervision; coaching for leadership teams, groups and individuals; coaching techniques and approaches; coaching culture
- Super-Vision on our own practice, including coaching walks by the sea
- Views from outside the sector.

These themes will be explored through plenary sessions, panel debates, workshops, conference posters, our sponsors and exhibitors, and coaching walks beside the sea.

Day One – Thursday 29th November 2018

| Time/Room                          | Session   | Facilitator/Presenter  |
|------------------------------------|---|--|
| 09.30DorchesterSuite Foyer | Arrival, Refreshments and Registration  |  |
| 10.15DorchesterSuite       | Welcome from the SDF - Update on the SDFWelcome to BournemouthIntroduction to the Conference Programme and Themes   | SDF ExecutiveDr Colleen Harding, BournemouthUniversity   |
| 10.30DorchesterSuite       | Keynote 1 Engaging Staff in Developing Vision, Values and Strategy'At BU we have recently developed our new strategic plan, BU2025. This isbuilt on our concept of Fusion, bringing together research, education andpractice. One important aspect of this is co-creation, and BU2025 was co-created with our stakeholders and staff in a collaborative and openprocess. We will describe how we developed our vision, values and strategicplan, how we engaged with staff and how we are continuing the sameapproach as we implement the plan.'  | Professor John Vinney, Vice-Chancellor, and Jim Andrews, ChiefOperating Officer, BournemouthUniversity |
| 11.15DorchesterSuite Foyer | Refreshments and Exhibits   |  |
| 11.40                              | Please choose either keynote 2 or 3 and move to the room  |  |
| 11.45DorchesterSuite       | Keynote 2 Taking Orders or Providing Direction? Balancing ServiceDelivery and Strategic Influence as a People Function'In an organisation aspiring to Lean principles, demand from the customer iskey in shaping the delivery of your service or team. But how do you respondwhen your professional judgement suggests that they are asking for the wrongthing? When your organisation has a very clear and singular purpose, how doyou ensure that your focus on that goal doesn't lead to all other goals beingneglected? Drawing on experience for the transformation change programmeat the Royal National Lifeboat Institution (RNLI), Nathan will be sharing somelessons learnt and ideas for the future from an HR and Learning andDevelopment perspective.CharityPlease note that two of our keynote speakers have agreed to speak insupport of their charities therefore please bring two £2 coins with you tothe conference to donate to these great causes (of course you canalways donate more if you choose to do so!). Envelopes will be availableon the tables and a box will be available at reception. | Nathan Palmer, Head of Learningand Development, RNLI   |
|                                    | Keynote 3 Culture Change – Is it all at Sea?Culture as part of the DNA of an organisation, is often said to be the key factorin determining "how things are done around here". As such an organisation'sculture is unique, often hard to define and evolves slowly over time. It's not aprocess, there is no quick fix to making changes to culture. Within the HigherEducation sector we can often believe changing culture is even more   | Susanne Clarke, BournemouthUniversity and Heather Dobby,Cobham Aviation Services                           |

|                | <ul> <li>challenging than it is within other sectors, this can be a misconception.</li> <li>Change and particularly culture change is never easy and there is much we can learn from outside of the sector and in turn lots that we in the sector can share too.</li> <li>Susanne and Heather will present a lively overview of what is different across our sectors and what is very similar. Heather has worked across many industries and has led change effectively and in very challenging environments. Susanne has headed many change programmes and led on culture change iniatives to embed excellence within Higher Education. We will compare, contrast and offer what we have seen working across both sectors to support culture change.</li> </ul>   |   |
|----------------|--|---|
| 12.4513.45 | LunchSponsor Competition   | Dr Rossana Espinoza   |
| 13.43          |  | Di Rossana Espinoza   |
| 14.00          | Move to Workshops 1-5 plus 2 Coach Walk  |   |
| 14.15          | <ul> <li>Workshop 1: A Virtual #CoachingHE Community Twitter offers a tool to generate engagement, peer support and co-production of knowledge. Twitter conversations create learning communities and opportunities to help participants advance their thinking, confidence and voice.</li> <li>This interactive workshop offers a hands-on opportunity to explore the full potential of using Twitter to engage in Twitter conversations or Tweetchats. It aims to support participants in utilising Twitter to develop their own confidence, social media presence and digital capability so they can reflect in their practice the advancements taking place in the learning landscape in HE.</li> <li>Participants will be taken through the principles of Twitter conversations, covering the developmental stages of use and reflecting on current Tweeting communities. This session begins with a low tech approach and ends with a live Twitter conversation.</li> <li>At the end of the workshop, participants will be able to: <ul> <li>gain understanding of the functionality of the tool, privacy settings, etiquette</li> <li>evaluate affordances and challenges that Twitter conversations as a learning innovation bring to Continuous Professional Development</li> <li>practise the conventions to take part in a low tech and live Twitter </li></ul> </li> </ul> | Dr Rossana Espinoza, Juliet Flynn,Dr Emma Gillaspy, Dee-AnnJohnson, Louise Rees |
| 14.15          | Workshop 2: Appreciating Cognitive Diversity – Working withUnconscious Bias for Teams in ChangeIn this interactive parallel session, participants will consider the latest researchinto unconscious bias, and the implications for people developers who aresupporting teams through change. Together we will share strategies andpractical tools for shining a light upon unconscious bias, to understand thelevels of cognitive diversity within our teams. All participants will have theopportunity to receive their own personal Margerison-McCann TeamManagement Profile as part of this session – with the results used as a livecase study to help explore change management strategies for a variety ofteam dynamics.Numbers are not limited, but attendees will be required to spend 10-15minscompleting their online questionnaire ahead of the conferenceWorkshop 3: Abstract for Service Excellence WorkshopService Excellence contains in itself something for everyone, no matter how   | Mark Gilroy, Managing Director,TMS Development InternationalLtd.                |
|                | Service Excellence contains in itself something for everyone, no matter howlong you've been in your job. We at the University of Hertfordshire have beenon a Service Excellence journey aimed at improving the level of serviceprovided to students and colleagues alike. Join us for this session to find outabout how we approached this ongoing journey, what we learned and how weutilised innovative learning and development tools to get people on-board andlead the way.Purpose   |   |

|       | To demonstrate how we reignited an old topic with a new approach – ServiceExcellence. Hear how rather than running traditional workshops we chose toengage as consultants based in departments to affect a genuine change ofbehaviour from within.Having experienced the success of trying a new approach to instigate realchange, when we all know how challenging it can be to do so, we want toshare this with you. Using an evidence based or customer led approach weengaged colleagues at departmental level to analyse their feedback, identifytheir learning needs, and develop bespoke high-quality standards. The journeycontinues as we keep measuring progress through feedback and the 'serviceuser's voice' to continuously improve our service levels.  |   |
|-------|--|---|
|       | <ul> <li>Explore how evidence and engagement put control in the hands ofthe teams involved and helped enthuse even the most jadedmembers of staff</li> </ul>   |   |
|       | <ul> <li>Share the Engagement Driven Approach that we used in partnershipwith Professional and Academic areas to instil a real change inservice and behaviour</li> </ul>   |   |
|       | • Discuss the methods of feedback we piloted and used with each area to collect the 'service users' voice and how that voice provided evidence of the changes required   |   |
|       | Explore how teams used this evidence to develop their own service standards, process improvements and agree learning and development solutions  |   |
|       | Demonstrate the role University's values play in a Service     Excellence culture and the importance of embedding them into     recruitment and performance management processes   |   |
|       | Showcase the suite of Service Excellence development sessionsand the Self-Assessment tool  |   |
|       | <ul> <li>Discuss how to engage senior level sponsors and engagement withsenior managers to open doors, overcome blocks and spread thegood news</li> </ul>  |   |
| 14.15 | <ul> <li>Workshop 4: Looking Afresh at Narrative         In 2018, universities have grasped the power of narrative. They're using this to connect people to their role and purpose. It's changing the practices of leaders and organisational developers.         We'll share our approach to explore your professional narrative in this experiential workshop. Join us and take away ideas you can apply. The outcomes of the workshop will be to enable you to:         <ul> <li>Experience and practise new techniques and approaches to help you to communicate your purpose, role and practice with greater clarity and impact</li> <li>Challenge your perception of your role, and where this fits into your professional narrative.</li> <li>Develop a concise narrative about what you do which is compelling, engaging and persuasive, and draws on your own authentic voice and personality to prioritise the message you want to convey</li> </ul> </li> </ul> | Dr Paul Gentle and LouiseClifton,Invisiblegrail.com                               |
|       | first year, our approach is founded in a deep knowledge of the sector and expertise in leadership development.We look forward to welcoming you at the conference.  |   |
| 14.15 | Workshop 5: Creating Space, Opportunities, Choice and Journeys - AFresh Look at Learning Adapting and Thriving in a ChangingLandscapeInitiated by doing more for less, saving money, decreasing attendance at faceto face events and a general malaise around learning a radical rethink led tothe creation of a culture of empowerment through the development of aninteractive learning portal, which provides the springboard for all our activity.A taste of what we are doing   | Delivered by the UCA Learning &Development Team, Sara Jacksonand Lidija Jones |

|                                    | Embedding a 70:20:10 mind set  |   |
|------------------------------------|--|---|
|                                    | <ul> <li>Developing agile approaches enabling speedy responses at point of need</li> <li>Using multi-dimensional techniques for innovative learning</li> <li>Using social media for promotion and engagement</li> </ul>  |   |
|                                    | <ul> <li>Some of the results are we seeing</li> <li>Increased engagement, particularly with the academic community</li> <li>Increased embedding of deeper learning</li> <li>Less use of external providers</li> <li>Greater use of coaching as a learning tool</li> </ul>  |   |
| 14.15Meet atreception      | Coaching Walk by the Sea - Supportive Conversation – Seeing change by the SeaI am an experienced coach and active member of the internal coaching team at Bournemouth University, and for the past 5 years I have been Head of Service Excellence at BU. I am very interested in strength based approaches in coaching and organisational development. As well as undertaking the excellent coach development opportunities that BU continues to provide, I am also experienced in using approaches based on appreciative inquiry, the use of metaphor and creative approaches to developing understanding and growth.   | Susanne Clarke,Service Excellence andOrganisational Change Lead atBournemouth University. |
|                                    | The wonderful location by the sea side provides an energising and embracing space to think and explore possibilities of what could happen next. The coaching conversation will be warm, the weather probably not so, remember to bring a wooly hat and gloves.   |   |
| 15.15DorchesterSuite Foyer | Refreshments, and Exhibits   |   |
| 15.45DorchesterSuite       | Keynote 3 Vision and Change: Looking to the Future with Advance HE?  | Tracey Bell-Reeves, Advance HE  |
|                                    | Move to workshops 6-10   |   |
| 16.45                              | Workshop 6: Delivering Change through Transforming PerformanceManagementWhy is it that most models of Performance Management exclude anyreference to people or performance? No wonder too many processes havebecome a series of bureaucratic activities that attract limited engagement anddeliver little of value.  | Hedda Bird MBA, 3C AssociatesLtd  |
|                                    | In this workshop we will explore a new model 'The Performance ManagementCanvas' that makes clear the human, social and emotional context withinwhich we must manage performance.Based on the White Paper 'Turning Strategy into Action – a new purpose forPerformance Management' we will share the most recent research into whatactually improves performance in the work place, and the implications of thatresearch for Performance Management Design, Training andimplementation. You will leave with a copy of the model that will help you thinkabout Performance Management differently, and give you some useful ideasyou can take back to your colleagues to challenge their thinking. |   |
|                                    | Feedback from a recent workshop along similar lines at the Universities andColleges Employers Association included"Great energy and ideas""Very useful and informative. Food for thought""Really good practical/operational advice and guidance""Liked the case studies and exploring some solutions through models""Some clear, simple guiding principles which will help in taking work onperformance management forward"  |   |
| 16.45                              | Workshop 7: Provocative Look at Coaching Evaluation in HEThe popularity of coaching in universities is evident from the number ofinstitutions procuring external coaches and some are 'growing' their own.Other universities have aspirations to develop a coaching culture and anumber are already well on the journey.   | Meriel Box, Liverpool John MooresUniversity and Dr Colleen Harding,Bournemouth University     |

|       | But do we know how coaching is actually valued in HE? And how do we know if it actually makes any difference?  |   |
|-------|--|---|
|       | During this session we will take a brief look at the findings in the LFHE funded Stimulus Paper: Exploring the Impact of Coaching in HE.   |   |
|       | We will then use the six provocations in the paper to promote some livelyand healthy group debate on the way that coaching is, or could, be valuedand evaluated.   |   |
|       | The purpose of this workshop is twofold:   |   |
|       | Firstly to draw attention to the LFHE (now Advance HE) Stimulus Paper:Exploring the Impact of Coaching in HE and to highlight some key findingsfrom a survey of universities and institutional case studies that set out howthey use, value and evaluate coaching.   |   |
|       | <ul> <li>Secondly for us to challenge our assumptions and to leave the session with one or more of the following:</li> <li>A refreshed way of thinking about how we, or our institutions, value or evaluate coaching</li> </ul>  |   |
|       | <ul> <li>Ideas on how to make the case for the value of coaching</li> <li>An enhanced understanding of coaching evaluation</li> </ul>  |   |
| 16.45 | Workshop 8: The Use of Self: Developing PresenceThe complex HE environment requires HR and Staff DevelopmentPractitioners to work flexibly within policy and practice guidelines to developsolutions, with their key stakeholders and other partners. Expertise providesthe basis for this way of working, however, increasingly stakeholders describeenhanced working relationships as the key to productive partnerships.  | Jacqueline Bisson,University of the Arts London   |
|       | In this session we will consider feedback from HE colleagues on how these relationships can be established and how the use of 'self' and the development of personal presence contributes.   |   |
|       | Participants will leave with HE insight to the capabilities valued by HR colleagues and stakeholders and practical tools to enhance their practice.  |   |
| 16.45 | Workshop 9: Digital Learning Creation: Enhancing Staff DevelopmentOpportunities using your VLEThis session is for you if:  | Kar StantonAssistant TEL DeveloperCentre for Excellence in LearningBournemouth University |
|       | You are interested in using your university's VLE (Virtual LearningEnvironment – eg Blackboard, Canvas, Moodle etc) to provide or support yourstaff development offerings.   | Julie Barber, Leadership andEngagement Manager,Bournemouth University                         |
|       | You are already using your VLE and would like to share best practice and explore new ideas.  |   |
|       | Bournemouth University's Organisational Development team are creatingblended and online development opportunities through our new VLE,Brightspace. We are keen to share our experiences and hear aboutparticipants' stories and experiences.   |   |
|       | We have been incorporating principles of digital learning curation and blended learning to enhance staff development: allowing staff to be 'leaders of their own learning' by choosing the place, time, pace and path of their learning, freeing up OD staff time, allowing staff to prepare for workshop sessions and role-modelling potential uses of the VLE that staff may use with their students. The majority of the session will be spent leading participants through a process of starting to create or enhance development opportunities in line with theory principants. |   |
| 16.45 | these principles.Workshop 10: Enabling Effective Partnerships between Technicians and  | Chris Turgoose: Business  |
|       | Organisational and Staff Developers to Create a Sustainable TechnicianServices   | Development & Centre Manager,National Technician  |
|       | The recently launched National Technician development Centre(https://nationaltechnicianscentre.ac.uk) aims to support HEIs to create asustainable future for their technical staff and services. As partners of theTechnician Commitment (TC) we are also working with HEIs to support the   | Development Centre  |

Main Sponsor

|                                    | pledges.SDF members have a critical role in enabling local development of technicalservices and staff and in a number of HEIs they have also been asked tohelp the HEI achieve the TC pledges. The centre has received a number ofcalls seeking support and guidance to help them in their role. The aim of thisworkshop will be to bring together good practice and shared experience tosupport them in this role. |  |
|------------------------------------|---|--|
| 17.45                              | Free Time and Networking  |  |
| 19.00DorchesterSuite Foyer | Drinks Reception sponsored by Marshalls   |  |
| 19.30                              | Conference Dinner and Awards by GoodpracticeDrinks sponsored by Cylix   |  |

Day Two – Friday 30th November 2018

| Time             | Session  | Facilitator/Presenter  |
|------------------|--|--|
| 8.45             | Welcome to Day 2   | SDF Chair  |
| Dorchester Suite |  |  |
| 9.00             | Keynote 4 The Business of Excellence         As a former Red Arrows pilot, Justin Hughes is no stranger to high performance in the most demanding of environments. Justin has since added some 14 years of consulting on performance to organisations ranging from a global tech company to a large public sector agency to a world-championship winning sports team.         Justin's presentation offers a highly engaging insight into some of the drivers of high performance, based on his book of the same name         Charity         Please note that two of our keynote speakers have agreed to speak in support of their charities therefore please bring two £2 coins with you to the conference to donate to these great causes ( of course you can always donate more if you choose to do so!). Envelopes will be available on the tables and a box will be available at reception.  | Justin HughesMD & Director of ConsultingAuthor of The Business of ExcellenceJustin has agreed to speak in support of theJon Egging Trusthttps://www.joneggingtrust.org.uk/ and sothis session will include an introduction byRuth Wright from the Trust |
|                  | Move to Workshops11-15 or Coach Walk   |  |
| 10.00            | <ul> <li>Workshop 11: The Role of Manager Coaching in LearningTransfer</li> <li>Managers are critical for learning transfer after a training course.Learn how to <ul> <li>support managers to do 'coaching' for learning transfer?</li> <li>design a training programme so it is 'manager friendly'?</li> <li>connect the manager to the other levers of learningtransfer.</li> </ul> </li> <li>And explore case studies for what has worked and what has notworked.</li> </ul>  | Paul Mathews , Peoplealchemy.co.uk   |
| 10.00            | Workshop 12: Sponsor v Mentor – Why Race MattersIncreasing knowledge of the science behind creating a moreinclusive experience for Black and Minority Ethnic (BME) at workhas led to a more evidence based design of interventions. Thisworkshop is informed by the Sponsor Toolkit , an evidence-basedresource for managers and leaders acting as career advocates forthe BME participants on Advance-HE's Diversifying LeadershipProgramme. Research suggests that a clear distinction needs tobe made between sponsorship and mentorship and the role ofmanagers in supporting sponsorship activity will be clarified. Theworkshop will highlight the BME specifics of the career enablingactivities the sponsor could engage in with their protégé.Participants will also be introduced to the behavioural science thatunderpins these suggestions. One key enabling activity that will beexplored on the workshop will be the ability of the sponsor toengage in conversations about race. Workshop participants will be | Tinu Cornish CPsychol, ManagingConsultant, SEA- Change Consultancy Ltd.and Jannett Morgan, Director forDiversifying Leadership   |

| 10.00 | <ul> <li>encouraged to explore how coaching and other communication techniques can enable positive conversations about race and as such will also be of interest to participants wanting to increase their coaching repertoire. At the end of this workshop participants will <ul> <li>Understand the difference between sponsoring and mentoring and why BME's can be over mentored and under sponsored</li> <li>Have viewed career enabling activities through the lens of ethnicity</li> <li>Understand why a 'colour blind approach to interacting with BME protégés can 'back fire'</li> <li>Learn approaches and guidelines for having career enabling conversations about race.</li> </ul> </li> <li>*While the focus of the workshop is BME sponsorship it will also be of benefit to sponsorship for other marginalised groups.</li> <li>Workshop 13: Playfulness at Work – Be more Creative, Open and Well (COW)'.</li> <li>The purpose of the session – We are all playful and we believe that being more COW will enable people to be more creative, take risks and be more inclusive as being playful breaks down barriers and ultimately leads to excellence as people start to get in a 'flow' state.</li> </ul> | Lisa Hobbs, University of WestminsterOlga Lavrentieva, Consultant.     |
|-------|---|--|
|       | <ul> <li>To provide participants with facts about how to be more playful in their work, and some evidence as to why we all need to be more COW (Creative, Open &amp; Well).</li> <li>Content – Playfulness is a mind-set. This session will help participants to explore what playfulness means and its benefits. Participants will experience the emotions and feelings that play brings through participating in experiential activities which will help in identifying their own playfulness ranking.</li> <li>Identified practical ways for mastering their use of playfulness</li> <li>Created a personalised toolkit of activities for enhancing playfulness</li> <li>Reflected on how they can take greater control over their feelings and thoughts</li> </ul>  |  |
| 10.00 | Workshop 14: Bring in the Trainers? Building Digital Capabilitywithin an Organisation – a Leadership ApproachDeveloping staff skills is an essential part of building the digitalcapability of your organisation. Training, however, is not always theonly answer. The issues that can hold people back from engagingwith technology can be complex and difficult to untangle.Too often organisations can invest large amounts of time and effort   | John Sumpter / Chris Thomson / ZacGribble, Jisc                        |
|       | <ul> <li>into training workshops to develop skills and then are left scratching heads when this doesn't lead to behaviour change.</li> <li>In this workshop you will learn about a process for implementing strategy though writing effective business goals and choosing the right interventions to achieve it, a technique we advocate at Jisc and forms part of the Digital Leaders Programme.</li> <li>Participants will be able to implement what they have learnt in this</li> </ul>  |  |
|       | Participants will be able to implement what they have learnt in this workshop immediately on return to their institutions.During the workshop participants will work though a scenario in teams and reflect on outcomes and how it applies to their practice.We will use the activity and session as an opportunity to explore the role of leadership in developing digital practice.   |  |
| 10.00 | Workshop 15: The Swell of Supervision to Buoy StaffEngagement   | John Trantom, Jason Boulter,Liverpool John Moores University (LJMU) is |

|                                    | Commencing with a helicopter view of how coaching andmentoring at LJMU helped us to gain the Mark of Excellence, thesession will focus on the importance of supervision, the journey togaining an ILM Level 7 Certificate in Coaching Supervision and a   | the first post-92 university to gain the AUA(Association of University Administrators)Mark of Excellence  |
|------------------------------------|---|---|
|                                    | supervisee perspective.The aim is to introduce fluid discussion at the latter end of thesession to ascertain supervision practice and hopes at otherinstitutions.   |   |
|                                    | Outcomes:A clear overview of the Leadership and Development Foundation's coaching, mentoring and supervision practiceInstigation of thoughts regarding the growing demand for qualified supervisors sector wideCapturing aspirations on a cross-institutional level as a platform to inform future SDF events and resources.   |   |
| Meet at reception                  | Coach WalkWalk with Eszter Molnar Mills, ICF Mentor Coach to participate in aBalint group conversation, in which you will receive support for yourcoaching practice.In any coaching relationship, the coach is not a dispassionate,  | Eszter Molnar Mills, FormiumDevelopment   |
|                                    | neutral observer. They have emotional responses and reactions thatsignificantly impact on the relationship, on outcomes and their ownwellbeing. For internal coaches the dynamics can be even morecomplex e.g. they may themselves be affected by the issue thecoachee raises, particularly at times of organisational change.Balint groups were designed to address the issue of how a helpingprofessional can better understand and manage their own reactions.Balint groups are about insight, not hindsight. Rather than looking at"that's what I should have asked", Balint groups focus on how thecoach reacted, how they feel now and how to manage theirresponses in the future. Emotional intelligence is at the centre of aBalint group – the approach fosters increased self-awareness, self-management and resilience.Balint groups are supervised sessions, used widely in the healthsector. Coaches can benefit by:o gaining perspective,o being better able to identify & manage their own responses,o maintaining better boundarieso maintaining unconditional regard for their coacheeso feeling better about how they feel. |   |
| 11.00Dorchester SuiteFoyer | Refreshments /Exhibits  |   |
| 11.30Dorchester Suite          | Panel of Provocateurs:Join our panel of provocateurs Simon, Kevin and Jean for aprovocative look at our purpose, our role and our practice. Feel freeto join in, ask questions, provoke back, or simply listen and observe– the choice is yours!  | Dr Simon Inger, University of BathDr Kevin Flinn University of HertfordshireJean Harrison Independent Consultant andAuthor: People and OrganisationDevelopment Strategy and Design. |
| 12.30Dorchester SuiteFoyer | Lunch /Exhibits   |   |
| 13.15                              | Move to sessions 16-20 or coach walk  |   |
| 13.15                              | Workshop 16: From Coach Pool to Coaching Culture:Systematic to Systemic ApproachesWithin the University of Nottingham, coaching is helping to set thetone for the way relationships are managed across the organisation.  | Christine Wilkinson , University of Nottingham  |
|                                    | Success has not been achieved overnight, but through an ongoingprogramme that began 2 years ago and which sees coaching nowoffered as a professional practice, and coaching skills being used byleaders for everyday leadership. Key to success has beenownership of coaching by the University's Leadership andManagement Development Team, and creation of a 60-strong pool   |   |

|       | r   |  |
|-------|---|--|
|       | of internal coaches, home-grown through a coaching development  |  |
|       | programme.From early creation of a coaching strategy at a time when coachinghad not been used widely in the University, to a more recent refreshof the coaching offering, Christine will describe the journey coachinghas travelled so far. She will frame her presentation around a casestudy that tells the story of introducing coaching specifically into theUniversity of Nottingham, and you will be invited to engage in twokey areas:   |  |
|       | <ul> <li>First, she will press the pause button at key stages of her reveal, so that you can answer a series of what happened next questions – a second-guess approach to see how your thinking aligns with what was actually introduced</li> <li>Next, you will be invited to consider what might help you to introduce coaching into your organisation, or if it's already in place, how you might enhance the offering</li> </ul>   |  |
|       | This session will be of interest to you if you are on the cusp ofintroducing coaching into your organisation, or are planning toreview and refresh what's already in place. Thinking about an entirecoaching framework, from strategy to stakeholder engagement, fromdelivery to robust formative and summative online evaluation, andwhich includes supervision and continuing professionaldevelopment, you will be able to answer: would I have done the   |  |
|       | same, what might I have done differently, what might I learn from someone else's approach, what is still to be achieved?  |  |
| 13.15 | <ul> <li>Workshop 17: Ask What's Strong, not What's Wrong: Adding the Power of Strengths to your Coaching Technique This session is for you if you want to ensure that your coaching delivers great results, whether you are an experienced coach, or just starting out. This practical session explores how using a strengths-focus helps your coachees access the best of themselves, tap into their resources, and find positive and fulfilling ways of effecting change. We see that the best results from coaching comes from a focus on strengths, which helps reduce resistance to change and to challenge, and builds self-efficacy, resilience and engagement by: <ul> <li>helping coachees identify new resources and solutions</li> <li>supporting positive and creative thinking</li> <li>aligning actions with coachees' core strengths, so changes they make are more effective</li> <li>helping the coach develop unconditional positive regard for the client in a personalised and meaningful way.</li> </ul> By taking part in this interactive session, you will: <ul> <li>understand the benefits of using strengths, for both the coaching relationship and the coachee's growth, change, resilience and success.</li> <li>explore the role of strengths in leadership and performance coaching.</li> <li>participate in a strength-based peer coaching conversation.</li> </ul></li></ul> | Eszter Molnar Mills, Formium Development   |
| 13.15 | <ul> <li>Identify opportunities to help leaders work from a strength-based perspective, rather than focussing on deficits</li> <li>Workshop 18: Career Pathways</li> <li>This session summarises the findings from the Professional Support Career Pathways Conference which took place on 3rd of July, which was held following a high demand from the SDF community to further explore the PS Career Pathways.</li> <li>The sessions will cover:         <ul> <li>Top tips from Cambridge, Chichester, Durham, Newcastle and Royal Holloway colleagues, who have offered to share their perspectives on a variety of Career Development Pathway initiatives</li> <li>An overview of presentations delivered by AUA (CPD framework and Mark of Excellence), CIPD (Civil Service</li> </ul> </li> </ul>  | Samantha White, OD Programme Advisor,London South Bank UniversityAlbina Shashyna, Organisational LearningConsultant, London School of Economicsand Political Science |

|       | Apprenticeship Levy)   |  |
|-------|--|--|
|       | <ul> <li>Key common themes that emerged from the event and aprogress update about identified next steps for individualorganisations and the HE sector</li> </ul>   |  |
| 13.15 | Workshop 19: Are You Dipping Your Toe In or Diving StraightIn? How to Manage Your Digital Identity in Social MediaInteractive presentation group discussion, use of smart phones,iPads ae encouraged however not necessary.  | Julie Bennett, Liverpool John MooresUniversity |
|       | The proliferation of software to create avatars on LinkedIn, Twitter,Facebook, blogs is becoming in some areas expected behaviourand part of our everyday professional/personal culture. The newsreports of the use of personal data accessed for political andmarketing purposes via Facebook raises questions of how to protectyour data and ethically engage the learners we are interacting withonline.  |  |
|       | The aim of this session is to give participants the knowledge tomanage their digital and social identity safely for both a professionaland personal life.  |  |
|       | Outcomes for participants:   |  |
|       | <ul> <li>An overview of social media, what a digital identity is, ademonstration of examples of social media software/ appsavailable</li> </ul>  |  |
|       | <ul> <li>The knowledge required to make an informed decision of when and how social media can be used</li> <li>What are the benefits/pitfalls</li> <li>A group discussion of how participants can approach the topic safely. Options, tools, and techniques to incorporate in their</li> </ul>   |  |
| 13.15 | digital interaction to protect their digital and social identityWorkshop 20: Spotlight – Learning to FLEX and COPE   | Dr. Pete Lindsay, Dr. Mark Bawden                  |
|       | Delegates will be sent a link and Spotlight ID.Interactive workshop format – with those who have signed up tothe session completing a Spotlight personality profile beforehand.These will be printed and handed out in the session.Spotlight is a personality profiling tool, designed with performance inmind. Based on the science of psychology, along with decadesworth of experience in elite sport, we built Spotlight to be practical,memorable and relevant to the modern world. | Mindflick  |
|       | Our experiences in the world of elite sport taught us a hard lessonabout character people change when there's something to be wonand lost.   |  |
|       | In fact, it taught us that it wasn't enough to just understand'Behavioural Style', we also had to consider 'Mind set'. Put simply,some people were trying to win, whilst others were trying not to lose- with both proving to be successful strategies when applied skilfully.   |  |
|       | As a result, we explored the major dimensions of character based onthe properties of the brain-behavioural systems. This includedthe basic processes of motivation, learning and emotion. Takingthese lessons, we developed a way of understanding both'Behavioural Style' and 'Mind set', combining them into what wecall "Performance Preferences".  |  |
|       | Despite a long history of psychological 'typing' and its application, recent research and the rapidly changing nature of the workplace means that simply understanding psychological preferences is no longer enough.  |  |
|       | With this in mind, Spotlight approaches things slightly differently  |  |
|       | <ul> <li>The core principles of Spotlight are:</li> <li>People change when there's something to be won or lost (and there's increasingly something to be won or lost in our daily interactions)</li> </ul>   |  |
|       | <ul> <li>Modern personality theory shows that we change acrosscontexts, and with volitional effort - it's important to</li> </ul>   |  |

|       | recognice and understand this shift   | 1                                      |
|-------|---|--|
|       | <ul> <li>recognise and understand this shift</li> <li>To connect and thrive in the modern workplace, it's</li> </ul>  |  |
|       | <ul> <li>To connect and time in the modern workplace, it'simportant to be able to FLEX our behavioural style andCOPE in a variety of ways, depending upon the mind setthat we need</li> </ul>  |  |
|       | <ul> <li>It's therefore less about "where you are" (on the profile)and much more about "where you can get to"</li> </ul>   |  |
|       | <ul> <li>Our weaknesses are often our strengths over- played -anything to excess becomes toxicSo with Spotlight, whilst we begin with understanding yournatural preferences, we quickly move onto how you mightFLEX to connect with others, and COPE in order to thrive.</li> </ul>   |  |
|       | Spotlight has been applied with organisations and teams from a widerange of fields, from elite sport to the financial sector. Our aim was todesign a tool that could be applied in any context, to help peoplemove forwards.Outcomes for Participants:  |  |
|       | <ul> <li>Understanding how 'Behavioural Style' and 'Mindset'interact.</li> </ul>   |  |
|       | <ul> <li>Explore their own personalised Spotlight report, exploringhow to FLEX to connect and COPE to thrive.</li> </ul>   |  |
|       | <ul> <li>Recognise how the FLEX and COPE frameworks can beapplied as shared modes of operating in meetings,strategic planning and team building.</li> <li>NB: Prior to the session, all participants will have completeda Spotlight profile which we will use within the session.</li> </ul>   |  |
| 13.15 | Coach Walk: Ebb and FlowIn this mindful coaching walk we will use natural beach materialsand soundscapes. These will serve as prompts for circumstanceswhich are part of the natural ebb and flow of our working practice.This guided process offers time for individual reflection andworking in a small groups outdoors building on Forest School andMindfulness principles. Please bring appropriate clothing forwalking down steps to the sandy beach and a device for digitalphotography. In case of adverse weather, the session will runindoors using beach artefacts. You do not have to be artistic or   | Dr Curie Scott, Bournemouth University |
| 14.15 | creative to come to this session Looking After Ourselves - Self Care  | Michelle Spirit                        |
|       | There is strong evidence showing the value of treating ourselveswith the same care and attention we would a good friend, but howmany of us apply that in practice, and what does it really meananyway to apply self care? There are plenty of people underpressure in the higher education sector right now, isn't it a little self-  |  |
|       | indulgent to think in this context of looking after ourselves whenreally in people development roles we should be supporting othersto help them cope? Well the research tells us that this is the verytime when we should be applying self care as it helps us performwell in the volatile, uncertain, complex and ambiguous times we findourselves in. It also helps us cope with challenges known to chipaway at our self esteem such as rejection, negative thinking andfeelings of isolation, all of which are more likely to raise their headwhen the pressure is on. If the well is dry we can't give another adrinkrelentlessly pushing on in difficult circumstances can beregarded as a weakness as we become less able to focus, makedecisions and frankly perform at the level we need to. We alsobecome less able to support others. |  |
|       | This session will help us understand what self care is and theevidence of its impact on performance. We will also explore how toapply the principles of self care and how this learning can betransferred to others back in the workplace. Along the way the planis to also have some fun!  |  |
|       |   | 0.0.5                                  |
| 15.00 | Closing Remarks and Prizes  | SDF                                    |

Thank you to our Sponsors

mindflick

Version 7/10/2018